Christians working and praying for a nuclear weapons-free world

Clergy at Faslane

All Saintsday 2006

A party from Clergy Against Nuclear Arms, consisting of: Andrew Shanks, Ali Marshall, Bernard Randall, David Paterson, David Platt and David Partridge. We were joined by around 10 members of the Scottish Clergy Action Group for most of the Watch at Faslane's north gate. On All Saint's Day, 50 or so Iona Community members came along for the liturgies.

The arrest

Scottish Clergy Action Group Faslane Watch practice, by now fairly well-tuned, encourages those offering themselves for arrest to sit down outside the main gate immediately following the Eucharist. After some fairly hesitant constabulary rituals, nine present were taken to Clydebank police station for 20 hours. All present agreed that the good-humoured manner of the constabulary was exemplary. Of the 200 arrestees since the early October start of the Faslane 365 project, no charges have yet been taken to court.

CANA Faslane two?

Angie Zelter, the project's founder, joined us for a picnic lunch on the second day's Watch - after and excellent bible study held near the north gate on the theme of the gospel bringing peace to the world. 'Jesus was a direct activist' (Angie Zelter). Among her other points:

- She and other members of the 365 committee have regular meetings with the police 'to agree on the rules of the game'.
- Some groups have organised confrontational activities. Fine, so long as everyone realises that the enemy is not the police and that the real illegality is Trident itself.
- Faslane was off the media's charts. Which left some of us wondering whether a Vicars and Tarts turn-out might be one way of bringing the issue back into circulation. (A subsequent comment from independent diplomat Carne Ross during his address at the AGM of 'Abolish War', to the effect that direct actions should avoid making themselves look flip-pant or silly; far better to look serious by involving the Archbishop!)

Resolve for another CANA Trident Watch

As a result of Angie Zelter's gentle questioning (with no hint of bullying), the six English Clergy members resolved to write to Rowan, asking him to encourage the episcopate and other church leaders to come to another Clergy Faslane Watch, outside the north gate under his Eucharistic presidency.

If nothing else was achieved, apart from the good company's enrichment, All Saintsday 06 felt like an exploratory forerunner for a more significant occasion in the spring or summer of 07.

And last, if definitely not least, our Manchester Theologian gave those gathered at the north gate for CANA's liturgy a trial-run for his Cathedral sermon on Remembrance Sunday.

David Partridge

2006 has been a year of statement against Trident from all our major church leaders, right up to the response in December from Rowan Williams to the Government's dismal White Paper. All no doubt partly due to the efforts of members!

The NEW PACK for the churches (Trident Edition) was sent to all church leaders for them to promote. Send for a copy if you can make good use of it.

Happy Christmas and a peaceful New Year to all our members

'RAF' Croughton (USAF) rally

CCND's David Platt was one of the speakers at the 'No Bases for War' rally at RAF Croughton on 7 October 2006. This is his speech.

It hurts me to agree with President George W Bush. But in one respect I do agree with him. There is an evil empire. There is an axis of evil and it is represented by this base here at Croughton. It is manifested at Fylingdales in the middle of the glorious North Yorkshire moors. It is clearly revealed at Menwith Hill, where at this very moment, Lindis Percy and other friends are campaigning. It is obvious at Faslane where the beautiful loch, the heather clad hills, the glory of Scotland, is defaced by the RN base on the Clyde. There we keep what the government calls 'our minimum required independent nuclear deterrent'. But it is not independent: it cannot be deployed without US control, US manufacture, US satellite technology, to target the Trident warheads: on whom? On what? No-one can tell us.

And this web of wickedness, this conspiracy of world domination, is before us today. It is credibly said that, if the President of the USA presses the nuclear button on the nuclear briefcase, always within his reach, the signal would pass through these domes, these aerials before us now.

For me, as a Christian priest, the evil is compounded by being proclaimed as the bringer of democracy, freedom and Christian civilisation. The fundamentalist Christian Right justifies this axis of evil by calling it good. Orwell's '1984' is pale in comparison. Doublespeak is now the language of democracy. Lies are the politician's stock in trade. And of course I am not forgetting the arch villain of our nation, the liar with the messianic eyes, the 'trust me I'm Tony' PM of this green and pleasant land. It is a land, a people, betrayed by repeated assaults on the Truth, degradation of the environment, the distortion of law, the destruction of centuries of civil rights, and of democratic government, a land where people since Magna Carta, since Wat Tyler, - pick whatever event in our history you please that proclaims the justice, the equality, the freedom, that should be ours by right.

Forgive me, my friends, if I see this as a deeply spiritual problem. How can we elect such a government? Only, I think, because as a nation, still exhausted after 'winning' two great European Wars - and we have only just paid off the vast debt of World War II, exacted with interest to our 'allies', the USA, whereas Germany was rebuilt by Marshall Aid - as an exhausted nation depleted of so much brilliance, so many of our young people (mainly men), so much of our industrial base - as a people, I believe, my friends, that we are victims of a psychic depression, an illness of the human spirit, an incapacity to see through garbage piled into our eyes, our ears, our minds, our spirits, by the toxic environment to which we are daily exposed.

But you and I do not say 'stop the planet, I want to get off'. We are here today because we know we have been betrayed. But we are not afraid to denounce our betrayers. Without claiming any moral high ground, we know deep inside ourselves, that we must do what is right. We must not succumb to the axis of evil in which our New Labour Government is totally complicit. There is a 'special relationship' indeed. But Bush's poodle is too polite a description of our PM's lack of benign influence on anyone, especially his alleged 'pal' George W Bush. The person who left the microphones on a the dinner table did us all a service: even the right-wing press of this country went to town on Tony's sycophancy and total helplessness before the President of the USA!

But you or I are not helpless. We are as free as we can be in a controlled society. We still have a land where Brian Haw; constantly harassed, is in Parliament Square for five years and five months. He does it for the Iraqi children. He does it for his own grandchildren. What sort of world do Bush and Blair imagine their grandchildren will inherit? Unless they think money and their power will ensure they survive in their personal luxury nuclear bunker? But, even there, the flood-waters of global warming will pour in and drown the war makers, just like the story of 'the flood' in the myths of so many ancient cultures. So take heart my friends. Bunyan's 'Pilgrim's Progress' tells us of someone called 'Valiant for Truth'. That is why we are here, in the company of our police. They, like our military forces, took their job to help make our society more safe, more just. But they are equally betrayed. The forces are sent to fight immoral wars. The police are asked to protect evil military bases, part of the US empire. They protect them not merely from alleged terrorist threat. They protect them from peace makers. From the compassionate and merciful. From the truth seekers and speakers. From people of a spiritual faith. Yes, my friends, from you and me. Looking around today I can see how really scary we are! And, of course to Blair and Bush we are scary. Because we have the courage, the vision, the faith, to nail their lies, to resist their injustice, in short, to speak Truth to Power!

I am privileged to share the platform today with Felicity and John. Their work and witness is an inspiration to me and I'm sure to us all.

I grieve that our brothers and sisters are paid to work behind this fence, under the delusion they are doing what is right. I grieve that members of our police force have to waste valuable time protecting wickedness from our peaceful protest. In affirming what we are doing as witnesses for sane politics and a safer world, let me quote to you the Thirteenth Century Sufi poet and mystic, Rumi. Over the centuries, he speaks today to you and me.

'You are all guardians of God's light
You are the talisman
You were born of the rays of God's majesty.'

I believe that is our calling. That is our status. That is our destiny. I end with the words of Desmond Tutu.

'GOODNESS is STRONGER than EVIL
LOVE is STRONGER than HATE
LIGHT is STRONGER than DARKNESS
TRUTH is STRONGER than LIES'

No Trident Replacement Petition on Downing Street Website

The Prime Minister's website now has a petition facility you can sign, as highlighted on the BBC News website.

One of the top petitions argues the PM should champion the nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and not replace Trident, so let's keep it at the top of the agenda.

If you can access the internet please sign it today and circulate details to everyone you know.

Books

Some of the People all the Time By Alastair Mackie

A new autobiography of a former Air Commodore and bomber pilot who is now Vice-President of CND.

Air Commodore (Ret'd) Alastair Mackie, CBE, DFC and Bar served in the Royal Air Force from 1940 to 1968. He left his RAF career because he disagreed with British and NATO defence policy - in particular what he described as 'Britain's idiotic nuclear so-called deterrent.'

The book is available from all good booksellers or it can be ordered with a credit/debit card by telephoning 01825 873133. RRP £17.99. 1-84624-056-5.

CCND has a review copy in the office. If you would like to read it and write a review for the next copy of Ploughshare (due out sometime in January/February) please get in touch.

Also in the office awaiting reviews:

Britannia's Sceptre: Scotland and the Trident System by Brian P Jamison.

A Pilgrimage Towards Peace by Joan Simkins. (an autobiography discussing the author's pacifism and the church's teaching on war)

If you would like to read either of these and write a review for Ploughshare, please ask.

Obituaries

CCND member Bobby Harrison of Dumbarton, Scotland died on 3rd July 2006. He was 91 and became a Quaker in his later years. Bobby campaigned tirelessly for justice and peace, fundraising for CND and Amnesty International. He was a regular at demonstrations against nuclear weapons, was arrested several times and was instrumental in setting up the peace camp at Faslane. He was a pacifist who lived out his beliefs. Bobby and his wife Margaret have been described as 'veteran campaigners' in the local paper. We know he will be sadly missed. Our condolences to Margaret.

Our condolences go to Doris Simpson of Sheffield. Doris's husband Arthur died in July aged 82.
